 Michael Dowden is a guilty incompetent & liar but he does make one point - where was Dany Cotton after the blaze started?

 "If in doubt, get them out" surely, Michael Dowden & Dany Cotton. What is difficult about that? #Grenfell #GrenfellInquiry

 Michael Dowden did appallingly in the dock/stand and now they're all scuppered like a Victorian band of crooks in their attempted ramshackle getaway boat. Not before time. No self promoting books on the back of this one now eh? Serve you lot right.

 Questions have to be directed at Michael Dowden because he was on the spot, ostensibly making and carrying out lethal decisions that cost so many lives. Obviously, his London Fire Brigade superiors should be interrogated as well. That goes without saying..

 Okay so now the tack's changed: the Fire Brigade's Union accept that there potentially is guilt but feel questions should be directed at Michael Dowden's superiors. bbc.co.uk/news/uk-446349... (who were pretending to be asleep while the fire rampaged apparently). Why not at both?

Grenfell firefighter questions 'absurd'

Union bosses say lawyers' questions put to Michael Dowden should have been directed at his superiors.

I wish you no ill and appreciate that emotions are high around such an appalling tragedy. But your attitude to and scapegoating of Michael Dowden are pathetic and from a position of utter ignorance.

What innocent uniformed person pauses for a whole half a minute before answering 'yes' or 'no' questions?
On the subject of Michael Dowden on this particular inquiry day ... (I'll now close my part in the discussion with this question) x

Michael Dowden "didn't consider discussing with the control room whether the 'stay put' order should be changed".

Incident commander felt 'helpless' as Grenfell Tower burned

Firefighter Michael Dowden should not have been in charge of such a big blaze, according to London fire brigade rules

Michael Dowden's getting mixed up now isn't he. If he didn't know they were in there, why did he tell them to stay put?
